

Respect, Protect, and Fulfill Sexual Health and Rights

THE WORLD TODAY

- The right to personal autonomy and bodily integrity
- The right to a safe, satisfying sexual life
- The right to live a sexual life free of discrimination
- The right to privacy
- The right to sexual health

Components of sexual health

THE INVESTMENT CASE

Current laws against sexual orientation increase stigma and violate human rights

6.9
MILLION

6.9 million women in developing countries were treated for complications from unsafe abortions in 2012

In developing regions, 8 in 10 women with curable sexually transmitted infections do not receive treatment

SOLUTIONS

Strong legal policies and systems to protect the sexual and reproductive health and rights of all

Comprehensive sexuality education in schools

Access to care for marginalized populations

Engagement of men and boys in sexual health and rights initiatives

When sexual health and rights are violated, girls and women are unable to fulfill their potential. A world without fear, stigma, or discrimination drives equality and progress for all.

ASKS

Recognize — in policy, practice, and funding — the central role sexual health and rights play in health equity, human rights, and development, while ensuring the inclusion of these rights in all national policies.

Stop using criminal law to control people's sexual health and rights and adopt appropriate laws and policies that respect, protect, and fulfill sexual health and rights for all, including youth.

Ensure that adequate legal systems upholding national policies focused on sexual health and rights are in place and establish a high-level governmental department for monitoring and accountability.

Establish comprehensive sexuality education in schools.

Enforce the integration of sexual health and rights frameworks within all programs for health providers emphasizing the importance of accessible, stigma free services for all, including marginalized groups, people living with disabilities, youth, and adolescents.

Ensure abortion is safe, legal, accessible, and affordable and that post-abortion care is available.

Engage men and boys in sexual health and rights initiatives.
