

Evofem and WomanCare Global to Attend Women Deliver 2016

Largest conference on health, rights, and wellbeing of girls and women with focus on solutions

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SAN DIEGO and Copenhagen, Denmark -- May 16, 2016 – Evofem and WomanCare Global will join leading experts on women’s global health and rights in Copenhagen, Denmark, May 16-19, 2016, for Women Deliver 2016. Saundra Pelletier, the organizations’ CEO, will join more than 5,000 global leaders, including Melinda Gates, Dr. Jim Yong Kim, the President of World Bank, as well as policymakers, donors, activists, and journalists from around the globe to share their expertise, and call for a better future for girls and women everywhere.

With more than 225 million girls and women globally who say they would like to plan their next pregnancy but don’t have access to services, supplies or information, access and education around women’s reproductive health is a top global issue that will be addressed at the conference.

“It is critical for women to be able to decide if, how and when they will have children,” said Saundra Pelletier, Evofem’s CEO and WomanCare Global’s Founding CEO. “Women being able to make the best choices for themselves and their families is predicated on access to information and resources. Investing in women and girls is absolutely critical to the success of humanity.”
